IN GROWING OLD. BY JOHN C. SAXE.

My days pass pleasantly away, My nights are blessed with sweetest sleep, I feel no symptoms of decay, I have no cause to mourn or weep, My friends are neither false nor cold, I'm growing old!

My growing talk of olden times, My growing thirst for early news, My growing apathy.

My growing love for casy shoes,

My growing hate of crowds and noise, My growing fear of catching cold, All tell me in the plainest voice-I'm growing old!

I'm growing fonder of my staff, The growing dinamer in the eyes, The growing fainter in my laugh, I'm growing deeper in my sighs; I'm growing careless of my dress, I'm growing frugal of my gold, I'm growing wise, I'm growing—yes— I'm growing old!

If el ic in my changing taste, I so i in on Charley bair, I so i la my crowing wals. I see it in my growing bair:
A thousand hines preclaim the truth,
As plant as truth was ever told, That, even in my haunted youth, I'm growing old!

Ab, mel my very hurds breathel The tale in my religions pars. And every boon the hours bequeath, But makes me debter to the years; Even Flattery's honeyed words declare The secret she would faid withhold, And tells me, in "How young you are ?" I'm growing ck!!

The aks for the years whose rapid flight, We sombre muse too glidly sings: That is for the chants or golden light That that the darkness of their wings; The light that beams from out the sky, Those heavenly mansions to unfold, Where all are blest, and none may sigh, Im growing old!
